FIA Mourns the Passing of Classical Singer Pandit Jasraj

The Federation of Indian Associations of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut (FIA-tri-state) joins music lovers worldwide in sharing their grief in the passing of Padma Vibhushan Sangeet Martand Pandit Jasraj of cardiac arrest on August 17 in New Jersey. He was 90, and is survived by his wife, Madhura Shantaram, and his children, Durga Jasraj and Sharang Dev Pandit.

Belonging to the Mewati Gharana, Jasraj is considered the doyen of Indian classical vocal music. Mewati Gharana is a school of music known for its traditional performances of khayals.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi offered condolences after Panditji's death. "The unfortunate demise of Pandit Jasrajji leaves a deep void in the Indian cultural sphere," Prime Minister Modi said. "Not only were his renditions outstanding, he also made a mark as an exceptional mentor to several other vocalists. Condolences to his family and admirers worldwide. Om Shanti."

Panditji graced FIA's world famous India Day Parade in August 2011 as the Guest of Honor along with Bollywood actress Rani Mukherji as the Grand Marshall.

Panditji was among the top golden vocal classical singers in the era of Pandit Omakrath Thakur, Pandit Bhimsen Joshi, Pandit Kumar Gandharva, Girija Devi and Begum Akhtar, among others. He was an ardent devotee of Dwarkadhish Prabhu.

Pandit Jasraj was born on Jan. 28, 1930 in Hissar district of Punjab, now Haryana. His father, Motiram, was also a classical singer. Motiram was Mewat's 'Raj Gayak.'

Panditji first started mastering the tabla, under his elder brother, Pandit Maniram's tutelage.

Through God's grace and hard work, Panditji trained himself to excel in classical, semi classical and bhajan singing. In a career spanning over 80 years, Panditji has added his own elements to the genre, including the thumri. There was divinity in his music. He gave a new dimension of classical vocal singing and bhajan singing.

In 1970, Panditji developed his own new raga - "Jasrangi Raga" - which is a superb combination of two ragas, Abhogi and Kalavati - a masterful jugalbandi. He also popularized semi-classical musical styles, such as Haveli Sangeet, that involves semi-classical performances in temples. He has created a variety of rare ragas like Gyankali, Dhanashree, Abiri Todi, Bhavsakh, Patdeepki and Purba.

He received the Padma Vibhushan in 2000, the Padma Bhushan in 1990, the Padma Shri in 1975 and the Sangeet Natak Akademi Award in 1987 for his contribution to the Indian classical music.

Panditji married Madhura, daughter of famous producer and director, V. Shantaram of Rajkamal Kala Mandir in 1962. His son, Sharang Dev Pandit, and daughter, Durga Jasraj, are both well known in music, acting and anchoring fields.

In the U.S., Panditji co-founded the Pandit Jasraj Institute for Music Research, Artistry and Appreciation - the Mewati Gurukul, with locations in Colonia, New Jersey; Brooklyn, New York; Mars, Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The institute aims "to foster the preservation, growth and teaching of Indian Classical Music in the tradition of Mewati Gharana. The institute is headed by co-founder, Pandita Tripti Indira R. Mukherjee.

A special scholarship in classical music on Panditji's name is awarded at the Queens University in New York.

There is also an annual performance in New York, where Indian classical singers of all genres assemble and perform to honor Panditji.

Panditji would always greet everyone with his signature smile, accompanied by "Jai Ho," with his blessings by both hands. A regular at high-profile events, Panditji has performed at the Consulate General of India in New York as well as the TV Asia studios in Edison, New Jersey.

Mahendra Singh Dhoni Retires From International Cricket

India's legendary cricketer Mahendra Singh Dhoni's August 15 Instagram post, announcing his retirement from all forms of international cricket, sent shockwaves among his fans and cricket lovers the world over.

M.S. Dhoni has dominated Indian cricket for over 15 years and has registered so many records on his name, establishing himself as a giant of the sport. Dhoni is undoubtedly India's greatest limited-overs cricketer, its most successful captain, with a superb cricketing brain and incredible coolness during challenges on the field.

Dhoni's records are a testament of his legacy. His lifelong records define his super stardom. A boy who was born in Ranchi in 1981, with his hard work and brilliance, became the hero of the cricketing world.

Dhoni has the distinction of becoming the only captain among World Cup cricket playing nations to win three prestigious ICC titles.

1. T20 World Cup in 2007 in Johannesburg, South Africa.
2. Champions Trophy in 2013 in London, UK.
3. One Day World Cup in 2011 at the Wankhede Stadium in Mumbai.
 - Won Asia Cup matches twice - 2010 and 2016.
 - Number 1 Test ranking.
 - He captained 332 international matches, including 200 One Day, 60 Test, and 72 T-20 (more than 50 matches in each format). Following Dhoni is Australia's Ricky Ponting, at No. 2, with 324 matches.
 - Dhoni has the maximum wins in One Day finals - 4 out of 6 - with a total of 110 victories.
 - He has the maximum not-outs in One Day matches (24). He has been not out for 51 times while chasing, out of which India won 47 matches, lost two, and two were declared a tie.
 - Dhoni has the distinction of maximum stumping - 123 in 350 One Days. Sri Lanka's Kumar Sangakkara has 99 stumping.
 - His total aggregate runs are 17, 266 and 829 outs as wicket keeper.
 - Dhoni led the Chennai Super Kings thrice in the IPL.

Dhoni was regarded as one of the best finishers in the game, though in his later years, he slowed down a bit. This resulted in India's defeat in the One Day World Cup semi-final to New Zealand, which was incidentally the 350th and last One Day of his illustrious career.

Dhoni's powerful hurricane innings of 148 runs in 123 balls in Visakhapatnam (Vizag) in 2005 had announced his majestic arrival in international cricket. The World T20 final in Johannesburg made him the hero. His match-winning 91 not out in the 2011 World Cup final against Sri Lanka at the Wankhede Stadium in Mumbai, took Dhoni to the highest echelons of the sport.

Dhoni's flair and sheer natural brilliance, cool temperament, constant communication with his team members and bowlers, made him India's wicket keeper and batsman par excellence.

Dhoni married his longtime sweetheart, Sakshi, and the couple has one daughter. He received the honorary rank of a lieutenant colonel with the Indian Territorial Army in 2011. In 2015, he became a qualified paratrooper after having completed five parachute training jumps from Indian Army aircrafts in the Agra training camp.

A highly successful biopic "M.S. Dhoni: The Untold Story," was based on his popularity and importance, starring Sushant Singh Rajput.

Dhoni's contemporary, Suresh Raina - an accomplished batsman and fielder - also announced his retirement from international cricket on August 15, the same day as Dhoni. Raina has the distinction of scoring a century in the three big formats - Test, ODI and T-20. Both Dhoni and Raina will continue to play in the IPL. FIA wishes the best for a second innings to both.

Social Security Expedites Decisions For People With Severe Disabilities

Agency Adds to Compassionate Allowances List

Andrew Saul, Commissioner of Social Security, on August 17, announced five new Compassionate Allowances conditions: Desmoplastic Small Round Cell Tumors, GM1 Gangliosidosis - Infantile and Juvenile Forms, Nicolaides-Baraister Syndrome, Rubinstein-Tybai Syndrome, and Secondary Adenocarcinoma of the Brain. Compassionate Allowances is a program to quickly identify severe medical conditions and diseases that meet Social Security's standards for disability benefits.

"Social Security's top priority is to serve the public, and we remain committed to improving the disability determination process for Americans," said Commissioner Saul. "Our Compassionate Allowances program gets us one step closer to reaching our goals by helping us accelerate the disability process for people who are likely to get approved for benefits due to the severity of their condition."

The Compassionate Allowances program quickly identifies claims where the applicant's condition or disease clearly meets Social Security's statutory standard for disability. Due to the severe nature of many of these conditions, these claims are often allowed based on medical confirmation of the diagnosis alone. To date, more than 600,000 people with severe disabilities have been approved through this accelerated, policy-compliant disability process. Over the last decade, the list has grown to a total of 242 conditions, including certain cancers, adult brain disorders, and a number of rare disorders that affect children.

The agency incorporates leading technology to identify potential Compassionate Allowances and make quick decisions. When a person applies for disability benefits, Social Security must obtain medical records in order to make an accurate determination. Social Security's Health IT brings the speed and efficiency of electronic medical records to the disability determination process. With electronic records transmission, Social Security is able to quickly obtain a claimant's medical information, review it, and make a determination faster than ever before.

For more information about the program, including a list of all Compassionate Allowances conditions, please visit www.socialsecurity.gov/compassionateallowances.
